Hi. I hate summer. I went outside for a few seconds and got attacked by a bee. It didn't sting me, but I bet it tried hard enough to. It flew right at me. Bees are stupid. I don't know why they fly right around my door. There are no flowers there. Go find some flowers or something and stop hanging around my front door! I hate damn bees. Bees are stupid. Those scientists want to make you think bees go around pollinating flowers and crops, but the real reason for their existence is to sting people. For no apparent reason. Did you know that when Adam was naming the animals in the garden of eden, he wanted to name them "Beelzebub," but God forced him to shorten it. That is how bees got their name. Because they are from the Devil. Satan tricked God into getting drunk and when God was blotto, he made bees.

No God who claims he loves people would make bees to go around and sting people and hurt them. Bees in the house are a big problem. Sometimes you can't be safe when you're INSIDE because some idiot who lives with you came inside from being outside and a bee flies in and stings you. God, God is stupid. The damn thing landed on my arm and I swatted at it and it flew away. I screamed like a little girl. Because I don't like pain. Pain hurts. If God made people, he should have made them not able to feel pain. Pain sucks. I hate pain. My eye hurts sometimes so bad I have to vomit. And sometimes my stomach hurts and I have to poop a whole bunch. And sometimes I get stung by bees. And I'm not even a damn beekeeper! I'm a raccoonnook-keeper! I'd much rather get clawed by a raccoon when I get in his nook and clean around it than get stung by a bee.

Well, I hope everyone had a happy Memorial Day. Memorial Day is a day to reflect on all the people who died making this country free. Because if I lived in North Korea and said Kim Jong Un is a stupid moron, I'd get in jail. And I don't like jail. Jail is stupid. But Obama is a stupid moron and he can't jail me for saying that (although I bet he would like to.) So thank you all the dead people. You know what they should do: They should rise from the grave and fight wars again. Why put living people in harm's way when we can put dead people in wars? And instead of nuking Iran, we can just unleash a horde of zombies on them. And zombies can't die because they already are dead. So those idiot Iranians would be shooting at the zombies and the zombies would be lurching forward saying "brains!" and the Iranians would be wondering why the zombies aren't dying and then the zombies would eat the Iranians' brains. So Obama is stupid for not thinking this idea up. But it's a big pipe dream. Even if Obama did know about this idea, he wouldn't implement this because he wants the country to go down the toilet. He wants North Korea to bomb us. I don't know why he would want to die because they'd probably bomb Washington DC, New York City and Los Angeles first. But what do I know? I'm not as stupid as Obama. And as they say, ignorance is bliss. Perhaps this is why he always has a shot-eating grin on his face. Yes, I said shot-eating. I'd say the other word, but then I'd get in trouble, even though words are just words and can't hurt us, like bees can.

Hey, where's a human to sting? I like doing that. It's fun to sting people for no good reason.

June is coming up soon. That's the time of year I almost hate the most. I hate July more. July is stupid because everyone gets out: kids have no school so they wander around, getting stung by the bees that just came out.
