

issue 61 september 6, 2013

AAAA! It's BRCK OBM!

I want to talk with you about Syria. If the Syrian government used chemical weapons against its own people in August 21, why is it September 6 and we still haven't done anything about it? If we were going to do something, why not do it on August 22, not wait a few weeks and still not do anything about it? Maybe it's because Obama is going to use chemical weapons against us if you're a republican. Not conform to Obama's viewpoint? You get gassed. You have to think the same way Obama thinks, you know, since he's the new God. And the capital of Syria is Damascus. That's another thing. Why does the dumbass keep cussing? Please tell him to stop.

Dogs are dumb.

Dogs never pee when you want them to. It's getting to be the time of year when you have to take the dog out in the rain. And so you stand out in the rain and they don't do anything except eat grass and walk around. It's like they're trying to annoy you for no good reason. I have to have a dog. It did this exact thing. And it repeats every single day, except for the times where it doesn't rain and it becomes hotter than hell. Which I don't know where that term came from since scholars now believe that Hell is a cold, dark place, away from the light of God. If God brought the dumbass dog into my life, I want to be away from my tormenter God if I die. And my dumbass dog won't stop cussing, either. Maybe because I took a trip to Syria. I got gas. I ate too many beans in a

Damascus restaurant. They kept feeding me beans. They were like, "Here, have some more beans, you filthy American swine!" And they were free, too. Hey, you don't suppose they were poison

Hi. Neener here. Chris died of food poisoning. I told him not to go to Syria, but he said it was best to do so to spread the word of Big Belch News to all the world. I told him why not go to Africa? And he told me because there's apes in the jungle that would attack him. And if not apes, then an elephant would step on him. Or a lion would kill him. And he said that there aren't any vicious wild animals in Syria. I told him of the evil leader who gassed his own people, isn't that a vicious wild animal? He replied, yeah, so Obama is also a vicious wild animal. I think the heat got to him. Oh look, he's coming back in here. Not Obama, Chris. I guess he didn't die after all.

Obama damn it, Neener, I just went to the bathroom! As it turned out the beans were not poisonous, just rancid. I don't like rancid beans, but I ate them anyway. The first bite I took I was like "Obama, these beans are rancid!" So I took some hot sauce and dumped it on the beans. They tasted good then. And the guy is mowing the lawn in the thunder and lightning. And my nose has boogers in it. And the dumb dog can't pee in the rain. And the cat doesn't like the dog. And I had to go violent diarrhea in the toilet. So my life is a living nightmare. And that damned foreplay commercial was on again. It's about birth control. Or something. It shows on NorthWest Cable News. If there's a website to be better informed about birth control, then just say that. If I wanted to watch people do the icky, I would go on the internet. I went on the internet once. It was fascinating what can be discovered there. It's also fascinating the percentage of idiots that are posting awful stuff on there. I learned on the internet that 99% of the stuff on the internet is stupid. In fact, the internet told me that the only good website is the big belch news website.

© 2013, big belch news.